

Kirby Hall

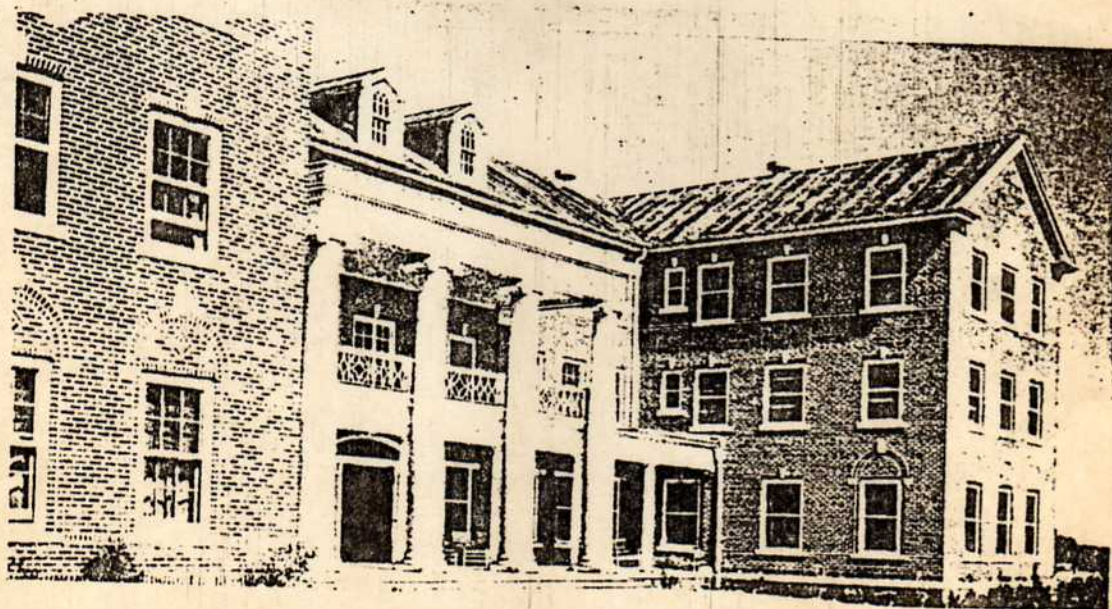

HELEN KIRBY Hall, Methodist Dormitory at the University of Texas, opened its doors for occupancy in the fall of 1924. Funds for the building were appropriated by the Board of Missions of the Southern Methodist Church and the Missionary societies of Texas. The site was a gift of the citizens of Austin.

Although the ownership is in the hands of the Board of Missions of a particular denomination, residential requirements do not include affiliation with the Methodist Church, and as a result various creeds are found among the groups of girls. This year members from at least eight churches make their home at Kirby Hall.

Every modern convenience is provided for the hundred girls who are able to secure a room each year before the capacity limit is reached. The building is a modern brick structure of three stories and a basement. It is steam heated and fireproof. On the first floor are the small parlors, a large social room, a library, two rooms for the director and business manager, and offices. The two upper floors are used for the accommodation of the students.

Mrs. T. A. Brown, who first conceived the idea of a Methodist dormitory at the University of Texas, is chairman of the local Board of Control. Other members who assist in the supervision are: Mrs. W. F. Gohlke, Mrs. M. Jones, Miss Lila Casis, and Mrs. N. A. Stedman.
